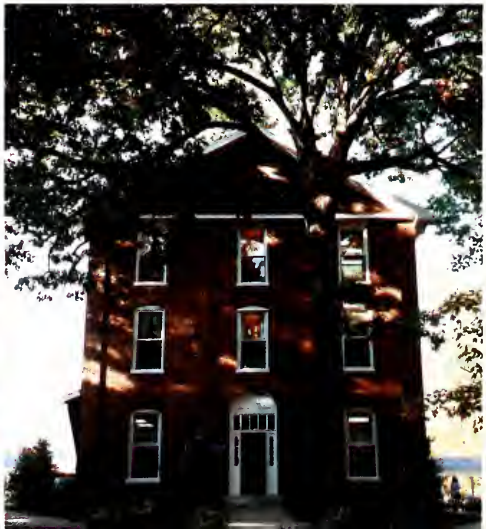
Lebanon, Illinois is a small, semirural community of 3,600 people, located 23 miles from downtown St. Louis, Missouri, situated on the old Vincennes trail to St. Louis trail. Lebanon was incorporated as a town in 1857. Lebanon was referred to by Charles Dickens in his book American Notes. The author stayed overnight in Lebanon's Mermaid Inn while on his travels through the Midwest to view the Looking Glass Prairie. Lebanon offers shops and entertainment establishments, including the Looking Glass Playhouse Community Theater.

BEARCATS



The Campus

McKendree College was founded February 20, 1828, in Lebanon, Illinois, by a group of pioneer Methodists. McKendree's campus reveals its historical background. Bothwell Chapel was constructed in 1858. It is home to the oldest bell in North America. The bell which rings out each hour and half-hour, was originally cast in 8th century Spain. Stephenson house, is where the president of the college resides. Old Main, completed in 1851, is the oldest surviving building at McKendree. Bensonwood art building once served as the library for McKendree. Voigt Science Hall houses McKendree's largest classrooms and laboratories. BEARCAT gymnasium was originally built as a temporary structure in 1958. It was used for many years for McKendree's intercollegiate sporting events. It is now being used for intramural sports and greek offices. Holman library was built in 1969 and replaced Bensonwood as the college's library. The first floor of Wildy Hall was built by students in 1868. In 1916, two floors were added. The building now houses the business office, financial aid, admissions, public relations, and the office of the president. Eisenmeyer auditorium was once McKendree's gymnasium. It now serves as a theater and includes a mailroom and music rooms. Clark Hall was once a women's dormitory. It now consists of classrooms, offices, and a computer center. Carnegie Hall was once a men's dormitory. It now consists of classrooms and faculty offices. The land for Hypes field was donated to the college by a wealthy family who took an interest in the growth and well being of McKendree College. McKendree Hypes Chamberlain was once president of McKendree. When the Civil War broke out in 1861, McKendreens rushed to defend the Union. 150 of the 200 students at the college voluntecred for Federal service. McKendree contributed at least 6 generals, 30 other officers, and 500 enlisted men to the Northern ranks. They made up the 117th Illinois Volunteer Infantry — known as the McKendree College Regiment. Many of the trees on McKendree's front lawn were planted in memory of McKendree militiamen who died in the civil war. Every spring, weather permitting, graduation is held on the front lawn where tiny white flowers cover the ground, making it look like snow. McKendree College is the oldest college in the State of Illinois, the 97th oldest in the United States and the oldest institution of higher learning maintaining continuous ties with the United Methodist Church.

The Melvin Price Convocation Center was dedicated in October, 1988. McKendree College is proud of its newest facility. The gymnasium is used for classes, varsity athletics, concerts, and a variety of other activities. A weight room is also open for student use. Outside, tennis courts and a softball and baseball field compliment the center.

We're Still Growing Strong

After the Convocation Center was finished, the bleachers were removed from the old gymnasium and greek offices were built.

In the summer of 1987 a fountain was installed on upper campus. The fountain which is surrounded by flowers in the spring and summer was anonymously donated by an alumnus of the college.

Membership in the Society doubled from 15 in the 1989 Spring Semester to 30 in the 1989 Fall Semester.

One of the first accomplishments of the school year was the drafting and adopting of the Society's Charter. The Society also achieved one of it's main goals by establishing the Alpha Delta Psi Chapter of Phi Alpha Theta International Honor Society in History. The Society also started work projects in the school archives, Holman Library, campus history, and the McKendree Review.

The officers for the Fall of 1989 were: Russ Williams, Chairman; Martin Quirk, Vice-Chairman; Melinda Hawk, Secretary and Aileen Antoni, Treasurer.

Alpha Phi Omega accomplished a great deal on and off the McKendree campus this year. They launched a tutoring program associated with Lebanon High School, raised funds to help support the proposed McKendree Cross Country team, and they also participated in the Big Brothers/Big Sisters program. Some other services included: two blood drives, Channel 9 and McKendree phonathons, and a car wash which earned donations for the homeless.

APO has increased its membership to thirty-five active members. The members of Alpha Phi Omega take great pride in the service they provide and the fellowship they offer. They hope that others will take light and join in their efforts.

Throughout the Year

Blood Drive

Each year Alpha Phi Omega holds a blood drive in Deneen Center on campus. The blood drive is coordinated with the Red Cross. Donations are accepted from students, faculty, staff, administration, and community members. Below, Louie Frick and John Hyde give blood.

Free Enterprise Lecture

The McKendree College Free Enterprise Lecture Series is held twice a year sponsored by Coca Cola Inc. Each lecture topic is presented by business people for the college's business students. Topics focus on the workings of America's Free Enterprise System.

Brown Bag Forum

Wednesdays at noon, Deneen Center is often the stage for local businessmen, poets, doctors, administrators, writers, and other successful, talented people. Left, Gary Berkley, President and Publisher of the Belleville News-Democrat speaks to students and faculty at a Brown Bag Forum.

Cream the Teacher

Lunch hour is a time for added entertainment in the McKendree Cafeteria. Students are often treated to music from bands and musicians, magic shows, comedians, fraternity and sorority entertainment and this year, something new. The Residence Hall Association, in a fundraising effort, sponsored an event that allowed students to "cream" their favorite teacher. Above, Chris Reynolds shows his appreciation for his father, Dean of Students, Dr. Todd Reynolds.

Cookie Day

The Annual Christmas Cookie Day at McKendree College is held the first week in December to allow the faculty, administrators and staff to share the Christmas spirit with the entire campus community, especially the students, through sharing their home-made cookies and other holiday treats. December 7, 1989 marks the Fourth Annual Christmas Cookie Day, which Mrs. Phyllis TenBrink, McKendree College's First Lady, has planned and hosted since 1985.

Founders Day

Those attending this years Founders Day celebration had the pleasure of hearing Christine Brewer sing. Christine, a 1976 graduate of McKendree College, has been a success in St. Louis, New York, and Europe. Christine still resided in Lebanon and has been a guest performer at other McKendree productions. The event also included an elegant dinner and silent auction. Founders Day is an annual celebration of McKendree College and a remembrance of those who had the foresight to establish an institution of higher learning in Lebanon.

All-School Picnic

The All-School Picnic is an annual event sponsored by the programming board each year in May. Students are treated to a bar-b-que and a variety of activities and entertainment.

Dr. Gerrit TenBrink President McKendree College

Gerrit J. TenBrink became president of McKendree College in 1979. During his tenure the college has dramatically rebounded from a precarious existence to a thriving one. The college's recent 10-year maximum reaccreditation by the North Central Association of Colleges and Schools is testimony to the academic and financial success that has graced McKendree during the past decade — under President TenBrink's leadership.

Since 1979 president TenBrink has insisted on balancing the college's budget while eliminating an operational debt of nearly $1 million. Accompanying this fiscal success, McKendree's enrollment has more than doubled, the quality of faculty has improved, faculty salaries have risen nearly 90 percent, the campus has been renovated and beautified, and the college in 1988 built and dedicated a new and much-needed convocation center — one of President TenBrink's proudest achievements.

President TenBrink obtained his bachelor of arts degree in 1956 from Calvin College, where his major was history and his minors were sociology and speech.

He obtained his master of arts degree from Michigan State University, where he majored in education administration with concentration in sociology and curriculum.

He earned his Ed.D. from George Washington University in 1966, again with a major in education administration; concentration in educational philosophy, research, curriculum, and adult education.

Before coming to McKendree, Dr. TenBrink was vice president for the Council for the Advancement of Small Colleges from 1974-79.

From 1967 to 1976, he was dean of the college and professor of education at Grand Rapids Baptist College in Michigan.

From 1964-67 he held three separate positions — acting assistant dean for academics affairs, director of off-campus education courses, and director of educational projects — at George Washington University.

From 1953-64, President TenBrink held various administrative and teaching positions in public education.

My four years at McKendree have come to an end. My wish for McKendree is to find someone to step in as editor. This person should be creative in working with other students, faculty, and staff at McKendree to create a book that captures all aspects of McKendree College and the McKendree College Community. Thanks to everyone who worked with me during my two years as editor. Special thanks to my assistant editor, Carol, for being so dedicated. Thanks to Sheri Boehm and Beth Jacobs for doing all of the "footwork" involved in getting this book to production, and thanks to everyone who contributed to the success of the book in any way. This book would not have been possible without everyone's dedication and contributions.
